

POTTERY GRENADE

This grenade was believed to be naval item. It was filled with 100 gms of Type 88 explosive and it weighed 600 gms. The body was made from terra cotta cast in two halves and baked together. It was covered in a straw coloured rubber membrane. It was provided with cloth bands for carrying purposes.

The ignition system was a simple striker and match composition placed over a delay element, an initiator and a booster. The delay provided was 4 to 5 seconds.

