

7 mm NAMBU

This cartridge was used in the Officers reduced calibre version of the 8mm Nambu. The size of it suggests a purely decorative weapon with no real serious military purpose in mind. It is believed that no other country manufactured this cartridge.

A 3.6 gm projectile with a full metal jacket propelled at approximately 300 ms.

There is believed to be a dummy version of this cartridge modeled on the 8mm Nambu style.

No headstamps or colour coding was used on these cartridges.
