

8X57 MAUSER

What the Italians were doing making 7.92mm ammunition I've no idea. They were possibly a contract for another country, possibly trials. The presence of blanks and drill rounds seems to suggest that the calibre was serious enough to warrant the effort to produce anything other than ball rounds. Any further information on this cartridge would be most appreciated.

